HEAT STROKES AVOIDED.

New Rules in Mills of Steel Corporation Prove Effective.

days of unseasonable torrid weather has served to prove the efficiency of a new system to save millworkers from heat strokes in the immense plant of the United States Steel Corporation at Homestead. Rules, posted in all departments last Monday, required each employe upon feeling faint or exhausted to report immediately to his foreman and then seek some cool spot for rest until he was fully recovered. The rules have been carefully followed and as a consequence not a case of heat prostration has been reported in the mills this week.

Some men don't need money in order to spend it. The high price of eggs has done much to reduce stage fright.

The race isn't always to the swift; it often depends on the jockey up.

NEW YORK, May 29.-The different times recorded by foremen's watches by which the gangs under them start and quit work on his 6,000-acre estate at Pocantico Hills, led John D. Rockefeller to have a town clock installed on a new barn. The striking of this clock can be heard all over the estate, so the men now start and quit work at the same time. The clock stops striking at 10 o'clock at night, so that Mr. Rocke-
